| F61  | Love | www.papillon.co.za
Aromatic notes are usually a combination of sage, rosemary, cumin, lavender and other plants which possess a very intensive grass-spicy scent. They are often combined with citrus and spicy notes. Aromatic compositions are typical of fragrances for men.

Aromatic Aquatic – Compositions of this group include fresh accords of seawater.

Aromatic Fougère – Derived from the French word “fougère” or “fern”. Perfume-originator of this group is Fougère Royal by the house of Houbigant, created by Paul Parquet in 1882. The perfumer extracted the synthetic component coumarin and used it in perfumery for the first time. Coumarin can be found in several plants, such as Tonka beans, and it possesses an intensive scent of freshly mown grass. Fougère compositions include notes of lavender, geranium, moss and wood.

Aromatic Green – Compositions of this group include accentuated green notes of grass or leaves and aromatic components like lavender, rosemary and wood.

Aromatic Spicy – This group includes primarily fragrances for men with spices and aromatic components that leave a fresh impression.

Citrus fragrances are old and abundant. Its compositions are based on lemon, orange, bergamot, grapefruit or mandarin, with other citrus, aromatic and tart notes for men and floral notes for women.

Citrus Aromatic – The citrus accord is enhanced by the addition of aromatic notes, such as thyme, rosemary, tarragon or mint.

Floral Aldehyde – Animal, powdery or slightly woody notes often enhance the floral bouquet. The top note is a marriage of aldehydes and hesperidia. This sub-family came into existence with the creation of Chanel No 5, the first floral-aldehyde perfume with an unusually high amount of aldehydes.

Floral Aquatic – A traditional floral bouquet enhanced with several marine notes during the evaporation process.

Floral Fruity – Since 1995, new fruity notes have blossomed in the world of perfumery. The floral body is easily identifiable, and the fruity notes are obvious. Among these are apricot, raspberry, lychee and apple.

Floral Fruity Gourmand – The range of floral-fruity fragrances is constantly being expanded. This is why we separated floral-fruity fragrances with gourmand nuances of caramel, sugar, chocolate, candies, etc. into a special category.

Floral Woody Musk – Always based on a floral accord, this family includes fragrances with an additional woody and/or musky note, which gives a richer, more contemporary structure than that of traditional floral perfume.
Leather scents in various nuances, from floral, velvety compositions to tart and smoky ones are placed in this group. Scenting leather products in order to mask the unpleasant scent of leather itself, since urine and faeces of cattle, as well as blood and tar had been used in its traditional production, marked the beginning of perfumery.

Oriental fragrances with dominant, amber are placed in a separate group, thanks to their accentuated warmth and sensuality. Their opulent bouquet includes intoxicating and intensive substances such as musk, vanilla, exotic resins and wood, often accompanied with exotic flowers and spices.

Oriental Floral – Traditional oriental base composed of sweet, powdery elements, accompanied by an exotic floral note such as tiara flower or ‘spicy’ flowers such as carnation.

Oriental Spicy – Spices such as cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg join the oriental accord to enhance the originality and the character of these unmistakable perfumes.

Oriental Vanilla – Vanilla and classical amber notes accentuate the original oriental aroma.

Oriental Woody – Warm and opulent notes like amber and sandalwood, or dry notes like cedar are added to the oriental accord to further accentuate it.

Oriental Fougère – Harmony of oriental components (warm woody and spicy notes) is refreshed with aromatic lavender, rosemary, coumarin and oakmoss.

Opulent compositions of woody notes at the heart and accentuated with woody base notes. Warm, mysterious sandalwood, drier and sharper cedar and vetiver, resin-like and balmy exotic sorts are usually accompanied with aromatic citrus notes.

Woody Aquatic – This type of perfume composition, by rule, unites a woody heart with a fresh, aromatic accord and aquatic notes.

Woody Aromatic – A very masculine union of wood and aromatic notes is characteristic of fragrances for men. Opulent centre and base open with aromatic herbs.

Woody Chypre – Oak, moss and labdanum are combined with dominant woody notes and have a very opulent and intense scent.

Woody Floral Musk – Dominant wood at the heart of compositions has a beautiful opening with flowers such as violet and freesia, as well as a musky base.

Woody Spicy – Soft and pleasant scent of exotic woods harmonizes with warm, bitter spices such as pepper, cloves, nutmeg or cinnamon.

The name comes from the French language word for “fern”. Fougère perfumes are made with a blend of fragrances with sweet top-notes of lavender developing into woody scents of oakmoss and coumarin (similar to the scent of new-mown hay). Aromatic fougère contains additional notes of herbs, spice and/or wood, especially popular as fragrances for men.
